Regular Meeting Minutes
April 21, 1989

The regular monthly meeting of the G.S.D.C. of St. Louis, Inc. was called to order by President Bud Leistner at 8:26 p.m. at the Brentwood Recreation Center.

There was an educational presentation on showing in Canada with a nose print demonstration, presented by Dyan & Bill Harper and Judy Deane.

There was a short break.

The roll was called. Ken Dieckmann, Alice Krueger and Don Krueger were absent.

The minutes of the March 17, 1989 meeting were approved as read.

The Treasurer's report was approved as read.

The minutes of the March 2, 1989 board meeting were read.

Marilee Wilkinson, Corresponding Secretary, reported that she had received letters from AKC acknowledging our closing date and change of show site; also a flyer about a Fun Match in Washington, MO.

Committee Reports

Training: Harold Beckham reported that there were many dogs enrolled in the classes, he then presented a check from the training committee.

Trophies: Judy Deane reported that she had ordered trophies; there were 28 trophies left over from the Fall Show. A plea was made for everyone to pay their trophy donations promptly.

Wag-n-Tonque: Daphne Szscuka said she would try to print the next issue this weekend. She made a plea for help in getting the show catalog and the Wag together. She also reported that some covers were still available.

Spring Show: Larry Duerbeck reported that the Emory property was no longer available, the show site will now be the Bridgeton Soccer Club-formerly Just For Kicks. Alan Stonewill be flying in Friday and returning Monday - Don & Alice Krueger will take care of hospitality. The Puppy Match will be at the Dog Museum with judging beginning around 10:30. Larry mentioned the Club could make some money if we had a food concession.

Canine Corp & Publicity: Nancy Kearney reported that a K-9 dog had died. Helene Bridges made a motion to leave the K-9 awards as it had been in past years, the motion was seconded by Liz Edwards. A discussion folowed. The motion was then passed 17-10.

Liz Edwards said she had some ideas on how to defray the cost of the awards; she would go over them with Nancy and report back to the Club.

The guest list was read.

Old Business

Barb Bronson reported on the National War Dog Project. There will be a booth at the Spring Show to take orders for baseball hats, T-shirts and certificates.

Marilyn Balsman announced that the Lemay Days Parade would be April 29. Meeting at Broadway and Hoffmeister at 9:00 a.m.

New Business

Don Bridges, Barb Gambill, Forrest Kennedy, Jennifer Moon, and Nancy & Randy Narup were welcomed as new members.

Don Bridges donated an IBM typewriter to the Club.

President Leistner expressed sympathy to those who had recnetly lost dogs; Barb Bronson, Marcia Hadley, Rosalind North, Fran Ruoff & Marilee Wilkinson. He also announced there would be a sign-up sheet to bring a dog to the meeting.

Larry Duerbeck mentioned recieving a letter pertaining to P.R., he asked if anyone was interested in seeing it before turning it over to Nancy Kearney.

Louise Leistner suggested taking donations at the meeting for the Puppy Match trophies.

Ricky Harrison asked for the Club to try for the 1992 Futurity/Maturity. She said Alice Becker had volunteered to be Chairperson. Ricky then made a motion that the Club ask permission to have the 1992 Futurity/Maturity in MO. The motion was seconded by Daphne Szscuka and passed.

Nancy Kearney announced forthcoming programs at the Dog Musuem - a temperment test demonstration on Mother's Day and a lecture on war dogs by Dr. Linden on Memorial Day.

runny person

Scott McNabb asked to see why the Club is in debt. Barb Bronson explained that most expenses were with the copy machine. Harold Beckham mentioned that we had changed copy machine plans.

Louise Leistner announced that $50.10 was collected for the Puppy Match.

President Leistner announced that the Club picnic would be August 6 at Wilmar Park, Grounds #2. The cost will be $3.50 a person. Reservation must be made by the Saturday before. Remember if you make a reservation you must pay.

Louise Leistner mentioned that Sappington School would like the Club to participate in their picnic and parade.

President Leistner said he would not read anonymous letters. He asked that if you send a letter, sign it.

Harold Beckham moved the meeting be adjourned. The motion was seconded by Marilyn Balsman and passed. The meeting was adjourned at 10:25 p.m.

A brag box followed.

Respectfully submitted,

Kathy Redford

A LAYMAN'S GUIDE TO AN OUT-OF-TOWN DOG SHOW

by Tony Szczuka*

*Original Article

Words of wisdom by a veteran novice traveler (too novice to give it up and too veteran to have any excuses).

1. Whenever you travel with your wife and mother-in-law (or any two women) be prepared to stop a lot. My wife has to stop at ever other rest area, and so does my mother-in-law; but never at the same rest areas.
2. Be sure to bring extra money; somehow my wife seems to decide she has to go just as we pass a rest area and cannot wait until the next one. "Don't worry" she says, "There's a Dairy Queen just up ahead we can stop at. And while we're there"
3. Never plan on 'seeing the town' when you're at a dog show. If it's a good size town with plenty to see, you'll probably show at 9:30 am and again at 3:30 pm. If it's a small town with nothing you're interested in, you'll probably finish showing by 10:00 am and be bored out of your mind.
4. The last trip we took I remembered to ask the hotel how much room they had to exercise the dog when I make the reservations. "Plenty of room" said the clerk. 20 dog owners sharing a ten foot by 20 foot plot of bare dirt is not my idea of plenty of room.
5. We always allow a little extra time to get to the show in case we run in to a traffic jam (at 4:00 am) or have to stop 1 or 50 times. We went to a show in Kentucky and allowed an extra hour to get there. Halfway there, we noticed we went through a time zone change and lost our extra hour. We made it there by not stopping any, but I thought my poor wife was going to float away.
6. We went to a show where we got up a midnight, drove eight hours in a snow storm, had two friends who were in a wreck (minor damage) and I caught a cold. The next day all my wife could talk about was how much fun we had and when can we go back.
7. Taking little puppies on their first long trip is always an interesting experience. Usually, they get sick within 20 miles of home. Then they sleep for awhile. About halfway through the trip they wake up bored and start howling like they are being beaten. Then they quite down again. No matter whether your trip is for four hours or ten hours, they wake up about 10 minutes from the end of the trip and one decides he can no longer hold it and goes all over the place, and in turn the rest of them go. I guess it could be worse . . . but I'm not sure how.

HAVE DOGS - WILL TRAVEL*

by

Marcia Hadley

*original article

With great expectations, we began planning our trip to the Midwest Futurity in Moline, Illinois. Barb and I had been training Holly and Satana in novice obedience and hoped to earn our first legs at the Specialty the day after the Futurity. The main thing was that we were going to have so much fun!

We were going to take Jan's new van and Barb's car, with dogs and crates equally distributed. We would take our time going and enjoy . . . WRONG! Two days before departure, Jan was in a car accident and was unable to go . . . PANIC! We had between us five dogs and five crates and one car able to make the long trip. Barb's quick thinking and her mom's credit card got us a rental van. It was a beauty--a Dodge Ram, 1989 eight-passenger cargo van. The dealership removed one of the seats so we would have room for all the crates.

You must understand that Barb's crates are large . . . very large. We ended up having to double up two dogs in the Great Dane crate and carry her #500 crate dismantled. Syndi, who is the smallest and tends to get car sick, rode in a small crate we borrowed from Judy. We had to turn it on its side and stack it on the two #400 crates. She was such a good little girl; she slept the whole way and did not get car sick.

Judy hauled six dogs in her little truck with two loose behind her seats. Gina rode with Judy and at 7 p.m. on Friday, we crossed the Mississippi and entered Illinois. We had been told that Moline was a 3½-hour drive so we were quite surprised when we didn't arrive until 12:30 a.m.!

Right outside Moline, we picked up a local radio station. The temperature had dropped considerably since we left St. Louis and they were reporting that a record low would be reached by morning. When we arrived, we learned that Fran Ruoff had called the hotel to let us know she wouldn't be there; her van died 70 miles north of St. Louis. Our room was on the second floor, so we carried luggage, crates and dogs upstairs and finally got to bed around 2 a.m. We knew we were in trouble when we went to potty the dogs at 6 a.m. The temperature had dropped and the wind had picked up--a lot! Fran Foster, bless her, lent Gina a warm sweater, and we braved the elements at our first Futurity. Our junior dog went into the ring covered with sleet--he looked like a white dog! Gina handled a junior puppy dog for friends from St. Louis, and when he wrapped his lead around her legs, she took a fall. She didn't tell anyone she was hurt until after Gypsy came out of the ring. Gina had two badly-sprained fingers on her left hand. Were we having fun yet?

I must say that the members of the Quad Cities club are great! Shirley Morgan, their corresponding secretary, took us to the nearest medical center where we had Gina's hand X-rayed and splinted.

By the end of the Futurity's judging, people were huddled under blankets in a -12°F wind chill. I'm glad I waited for the end of the Futurity and got to see Lori Schwartzbeck's "Baby" go Best In Futurity. I knew she was special when I first saw her at a very young age floating across Lori's living room carpet!

I paid dearly for my stamina that evening at the restaurant. I had been chilled to the bone and it's hard to eat when your teeth are chattering and you're shivering uncontrollably. After soaking in a hot tub, I finally got warm. Judy had to leave right after the Futurity, so Saturday night we were on our own.

Sunday morning dawned sunny and warmer. We had a conflict with Novice A and Junior Handling at the same time, but Doris Frohman put me in last in Novice A. Gina took a 2nd in Open Junior and I rushed off to the obedience ring with Satana. As I waited to go in Novice A, Gina took De'Jeddah in for 6-9 puppy dogs. Since he hadn't placed in the Futurity, I assumed he wouldn't place in the real show either.

I could see the group of puppies going around with the Judge moving puppies up one after another. I could hear owners doubling and wished I could help Gina with De'Jeddah. I never did see a pup put in front of Gina and De'Jeddah. Then in a major upset, De'Jeddah went 1st 6-9 over the undefeated 1st place Junior Futurity dog; and I, in major shock, walked into the obedience ring with his mother for the first time in my life. Things went okay at first. I was thrilled about the "kids" and it was hard to concentrate on our obedience routine.

On one of our off-lead about-turns, I stepped on Satana's back foot. She yelped and jumped away. She recovered and returned to heel position when I patted my leg. Major points off, but we qualified; third place in Novice A and our first C.D. leg.

We had hoped to leave for home early, but we had to stay so De'Jeddah could compete for Best Puppy. He slept at ring-side unconcerned, and must have yawned 40 times as he gaited sluggishly around in Best Puppy competition. The 9-12 puppy bitch went Best, and we left Moline at 4 p.m. on Sunday.

We were told to go home through Iowa and Missouri, and that the highways were fine . . . WRONG! We drove through Burlington, made a wrong turn and ended up back across the Mississippi and into Illinois! We turned around and recrossed. The route was mostly rural two-lane . . . BORING! I remember counting dead "coons" on the road. I stopped at 50+ and we finally arrived in St. Louis at 11:30 p.m.-- 7½ hours later! It took us a week to recover from our little trip, and we had our show to look forward to the next weekend.

We learned several things--when going out of town:

- 1) listen to weather forecasts and take appropriate clothing;
- 2) make sure ahead of time that everything will fit in the car;
- 3) plan for the unexpected;
- 4) trust no one else's directions;
- 5) and try--just try--to have FUN!

I'm going to the Kansas City Specialties in two weeks--I will have fun . . . I think?

TRAVEL TIP - TEMPORARY ID TAGS by Allen Holmes

Over the years we have taken many trips with our dogs; not only day trips to dog shows, but longer trips of several days including some between Baltimore, MD and Denver, CO and one to Bermuda. A constant worry has been, "What if, in spite of our caution, a dog gets lost while we're traveling?"

Our experience with finding owners of dogs lost in our neighborhood proves the value of a tag with a phone number which the finder of the dog can call. But what good is a call to your home if you aren't going to be there for several days to answer the phone?

An obvious solution is to put on the dog's identification, the phone number of the place where you are currently staying. Replacing metal tags for every trip could get to be a problem even if you know where you'll be and what their phone number is. Using a temporary tag you can write on, like a luggage tag, may be satisfactory if you can find one small enough and a waterproof pen to write with. None of these possibilities has ever seemed satisfactory to me.

The ideal solution to this problem should be easy to change daily, rugged and waterproof, small and lightweight and inexpensive to use. The temporary ID tag described below fills the bill. A new tag with new phone numbers can be attached to the dog's collar each day for less than 25 cents a day. All that is needed is a piece of paper, a pen, a pair of scissors and a roll of clear plastic adhesive tape (3M Scotch Brand Patch and Repair Tape, Cat. #193). As a test, my dogs have been wearing the same tags for several weeks, chasing critters in the underbrush, playing and scratching and getting wet and the tags are still in great shape. The sketches and procedure below show how to make the ID tag and attach it to the collar.

Temporary Travel ID Tag

1- cut paper slip to size.

2- fill out ID information.

(use 3M Scotch Brand
Patch and Repair Tape
cat. no. 193)

A Holmes 4-85

3- lay tape on flat surface.

4- attach ID slip.

5- pick attachment point
on collar:

6- place collar across tape at attachment point.

7- wrap tape around collar and align with end holding ID slip.

8- press together for a tight seal.

9- cut off. Trim end if necessary.

Summer is almost here, and many people are planning trips with their dogs. Whether the trip is to a dog show or for a vacation, here are some suggestions for making the trip as easy and pleasant for the dog as possible.

The dogs must have all of their vaccinations, and if possible, proof of vaccination should be taken along. That way, if there is some question about the dog (such as in a biting incidence), it could save the trouble of treatment or revaccination. Also, dogs should wear some form of identification, such as tags or a tattoo, in case they are lost or stolen.

Carry along plenty of the dogs' regular food, or atleast enough for several days in case there is trouble locating a supplier. Also, carry drinking water from home or purchase distilled water. A sudden change in food or water can cause diarrhea.

Taking a first aid kit can also be useful. It should include: gauze, tape, a thermometer, diarrhea medicine such as Pepto-Bismol, tongue depressors for splints, alcohol, tweezers, and a blunt pair of scissors. Make sure that everything is clearly marked.

Keeping the dogs cool is another important consideration while traveling. Shade is the best way to accomplish this. Since trees are often scarce at a dog show or at some campgrounds, bring along some "artificial" shade. Aluminum "Survival" blankets placed over the car windshield can help keep the car cooler. A tarp connected to the car and a pole or other support can also provide shade. An umbrella that attaches to the back of a lawn chair can provide shade at ring-side. Use wire crates to travel with instead of the fiberglass ones. The wire will allow more air to circulate, keeping the dog cooler.

If the dogs should get too hot, one of the easiest ways to cool them down is with water. A towel soaked in cold water and draped over the dog's back will keep him cool even while out in the sun. As the water evaporates, it takes away the heat, and the dog will stay cool under the towel.

Remember, on an 85° day, the temperature inside a car, even with the windows open slightly, can reach 102° in ten minutes and in thirty minutes can go to 120°!! On hotter days it can rise even higher more quickly.

Good Luck and Happy Traveling!!

IN LOVING MEMORY OF BRITTA

Though time must pass,
Seasons come and go, steps slow, eyes dim,
Someone still sees you in the some old way,
Someone still remembers you and loves you still.
Someone remembers you and will until-----
The fading music dies, the song is song.
Someone remembers you-----gallent and young!!

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR GIRL "TINSIL" - KARLHEIM'S BRIGHT TINSIL, CD

11/10/79 to 5/7/89

She was sweet and loving to other people

She was faithful

She was obedient

She was our little girl

She watched over us

She loved to ride in the car

She loved to go out and get the mail when the mailman came

Now she is in heaven with her brother and sisters

May God keep her safe until we can all be united again in heaven

The Making of a Police Dog
a tribute to:
Egon aus dem Grauenhof
10-6-80 to 4-20-89

Egon began his life at Joyce Gray's. His dam, Hieke zur Bienenberg, SchH I, she had brought back with her from Germany. His sire was Falk vom Sonneberger Schloss SchH II. Even at this early age Egon had a rough start. He was from a medium size litter in which half was lost to parvo.

Joyce had Egon tracking at around 12 weeks old, he put his heart into it, but can you imagine a puppy doing a puppy track that's all legs and tripping over them? He put his heart into it. He was a very large dog and was a favorite at Joyce's because of his loving personality.

As he grew older he also grew larger and larger. He finally topped out at 29" at the withers and right around 120 pounds. (Just a little tad larger than the standard allows!) He had lost his clumsiness but not his aloofness.

Al had just lost his dog Rommel to parvo, and had to find another dog to train. That's when Al met Joyce and Egon. Egon promptly made his presence known by jumping on Al. It was like love at first sight. Al knew Egon had all the size, strength and drive he needed, but after getting to know Egon, Al had serious doubts if he would make it through the school because of his happy personality. Egon was now 2. To the day he died, he had the look in his eyes, give me a cookie and I'm your friend for life. It didn't matter what kind of cookie either as long as it was special. Even a piece of regular food was fine as long as you went out of your way to give it to him. He also knew what candy was too. At home it was his Eukanuba dog food and on the street it was a peppermint or a lifesaver. He'd turn flips for any of them if he could.

Egon picked everything at the training school quickly and passed with flying colors. Yes, even with "happy dog" sickness he even managed to bite somebody. He was always very protective of his "Dad" and his family. If somebody messed with dad that was enough to get him angry.

The only place where he was faulted oddly enough was his tracking. He had a tendency to "air track" which wasn't desirable, but he found what he was looking for every time.

Egon was unbeatable in a building search. High or low he would find them everytime. He knew there was or wasn't someone in the place as soon as he walked in there. But just like Egon he would polk around to see if there was anything in there that he wanted first, when he was done he would go straight to the person, "Hey, look dad he's right over here, come get him." The subject could have even made friends with him if he would have had a cookie on him. In most instances he would not bite the subject, rather hold him unless he made any kind of threatening move.

There were two times within a week that Egon managed to fall through the floor. The second time must have seemed like old hat to him. Both times Al had to pull him out by his tail. "O.K. dad I fell through again, here's my tail, PULL!"

Another couple of time turned out to be quite and expirience too. Egon was brought in to do a building search. The building was dark and Al was armed only with a flashlight. Egon had other ideas than a building search. Al urged Egon on to no avail. "Com'on Egon go do your thing." Al said. Egon just stood there sniffing, then you hear chomp chomp, smack smack. Al focused his flashlight, Egon found what he wanted, RAWHIDE, lots of it. The building turned out to be a rawhide factory and Egon found what he wanted, he continued on with his search with the rawhide clutched in his mouth. There was nobody in there but Egon was glad to do that search.

Egon was once again assigned to do a building search. This time there was somebody in the building hiding in a freezer. He let them know that what they were looking for was in the freezer and Egon had also found what he was looking for. A big old beef bone. The building was a meat packing plant. I know he was thinking to himself "Burglars don't come close to tasting this good." He trotted of with his prize and kept it in the car the rest of the evening, once things were under control in the warehouse.

Last year there was a boat race on the riverfront. Egon and the mounted patrol were assigned to crowd control. Don Johnson of "Miami Vice" was scheduled to appear and the plan was to keep the crowd away from the stage by placing the dog in the middle and two horses on the outside on either side. That was the only really scary time where we thought Egon was hurt. The Announcer said, "Here's Don Johnson", the crowd rushed the stage to catch a look, the horses panicked and started to prance and Egon got pranced by a 1 ton horse with cleated horseshoes. Egon yelped and tried to bite the horse and Al is frantically pushing people out of the way to get back to his car to get Egon to the vet he was bleeding and limping on the back foot. Lord knows what happened with his old bones. Al called me from the vets office and I flew home from work. By the time I got there, Egon was home and by the was he acted you could not tell that he had hurt himself. He was his happy old jovial self, barely even flinching when I looked at it. Egon was probably thinking, "O.K., well how about my cookie?"

At home Egon was a spoiled rotten brat. He was the house dog of house dogs. The basement was his with his very own couch, and it was so nice and cool. He led the easy life. Most often you didn't find him on the couch. He would lay on the stair landing because it was closer to people. Egon didn't know a stanger at home except for the dreaded gas man, but he was quick to recover and back to his happy self. His biggest thrill was to get a new blanket on his couch, he would get on it and roll around on it and use his nose until it was just perfect, the way he wanted it.

Egon loved to go to work. It was his chance to be with people, to relax and yes to go to sleep. He felt so comfortable in the car. He actually would get so mad at Al for leaving him behind that he would throw up and get dirreha, and when Al got home he would be just fine. " I'm trying to be mad at you, but you're home, can I have my cookie?"

Egon was a faithfull worker and a true companion until the day he died. He never showed he was ill. He died of panreatic cancer, a freak thing and something you never plan for. We wanted him to retire and enjoy his company for a time before we had to face this. But who can plan this kind of thing. With no better words to describe him, Egon was a clown and always there with a stunt to brighten your day. We will both be mourning for a long time and we miss him terribly. Thank you Egon for all the wonderful times you gave us. You will never leave our hearts.

A GERMAN SHEPHERD DOG IS MANY THINGS TO MANY PEOPLE By Nancy Yadon Kearney

Onyx is sweet, cuddly, loving, and more anxious to please than any dog I've owned. She is not very sure of herself. When strangers are around, at home or out, her favorite place is close to my side. She is much slower to accept people than a German Shepherd Dog should be; but will always let them pet her with reasonable grace, if I insist. Onyx may never do another thing correctly in her life; however, she has already earned her keep around my house.

For two years I'd taken high blood pressure medicine, but it didn't come down enough to suit the doctor, even when the the dosage was doubled. Within a month after getting Onyx my blood pressure lowered 20-30 points into a range the doctor deemed acceptable. Why give credit to Onyx? She needs training, as any young dog does; but she enjoys it so and has such fun, it is contagious. I admit our training sessions somehow always end up with me laughing at her antics; and that is not the smartest thing a trainer can do - laugh at the dog. Laughing at and with her has been very good for me, and she is learning.

I know she has absorbed a lot of training because she demonstrated how well she could do her lessons. A repairman came to the house one evening. He had to go in and out of the house several times to take care of the problem so I put Onyx in the bedroom. After I spoke with him, I decided that I was uncomfortable with him around; not a usual reaction on my part. I got a lead and collar and took Onyx out of the bedroom. She laid quietly in her usual place at my feet until the man came into the living room where I was reading. Onyx jumped up, came forward with raised hackles and growled warningly. She was not overtly vicious, just saying, "Stay put". It was the first time I ever heard her growl at anything or anybody. The man hurriedly stepped back about three feet as I told Onyx to be quiet, it was all right. She stopped growling retaining her position in front of me. He asked if she would bite. I said she never had, but since he was afraid of her it was best he not approach. I told Onyx to sit and she did instantly. When we went out to check the work, she obeyed every order, not just the "letter" of the command, but the "spirit" as well. She looked like a "million dollars". When we came back inside, she laid down at the very end of the lead in the dining room facing the kitchen door where the man had come in. The next time he entered she stood and growled softly, but stopped immediately as I said, "Quiet". She stayed exactly where she was, between me and that person I didn't introduce to her. He commented on how well trained she was, doing everything I asked. I told him that she was exceptionally trained and I was very proud of her. I never stipulated what kind of training Onyx had received, but his respectful manner around the dog made it clear his imagination had filled in the gap. (He stayed at least 9 feet away.) I don't know why I didn't like the person. To give you an idea of his manner, he asked for a Pepsi when he saw I had some in the refrigerator. I have often given workmen soda or water and never thought a thing about it. This was the first time one asked for more than a drink of water. The brash demeanor is why I brought Onyx in with me.

She has only lived with me a year. In such a short time she has been a wonderful companion, a therapy dog, and a guard dog for me. The versatility of the breed is certainly an inherited part of her character. What else she becomes only time, and effort on my part, will tell. Whatever she does, Onyx has earned the right to get hair all over my carpet for the rest of her life.

K-9 THE MOVIE

by

Helene Bridges*

*original

Chesterfield Cinema is promoting the movie K-9. The manager had a deal set up with a K-9 officer and dog to be present at the show, but the deal fell through. He called Alice on the Shepherd line and asked if anyone would be interested in bringing a dog out to the show. Well after a few phone calls, she had him set up for the weekend. Harold took Lady out on Friday night, the Trapps were there on Saturday and Don and Helene were there on Sunday. I do know Don and Alice were there the following weekend too.

I can't speak for the rest of them but I do know we had a ball. The people were all over the dogs hugging and kissing them, shaking hands, asking alot of questions. We handed out flyers and cards on the Club and told of our up coming show. The manager was so impressed, he asked if we could come back the next weekend.

We had several people ask if Hercules was the dog in the movie (Jerry Lee), we said, we wished he was. And of course one or two asked if Tisha was a Lab, and only one person asked if we were there to protest the movie, the rest seemed to know or were told we were there to help promote the movie as well as educate the public about the German Shepherd Dog.

This was good publibility for our breed.

If you haven't seen the movie, please go see it, it will make you laugh and cry and laugh some more.

We have learned the dog came from Germany and alot of the movie was written around the dogs actions. The critics gave this movie a bad rating, but on a scale of one * or , I give this movie a *****!.

Thanks to ,Lady, The Trapps Dogs, Hercules and Tisha, Hooker, Zapata, Glory and Ginger. At this time I don't know who else was there, but Thank You.

LEMAY DAYS PARADE*

by

Marilyn Balsman

*original article

We would like to say THANKS for being at the Lemay Days Parade to:
Bud and Louise Leistner, Don and Helen Bridges, Don and Alice Krueger, Harold Beckham, Ilona Horn, Randy and Nancy Nurpen, Chris Mally, Chad Mally, and all the dogs.

We had a lovely day for the parade: cool weather and no rain. After the parade, many people stopped by to pet the dogs and ask us questions. The dogs got a lot of attention, which they enjoyed very much. Some of us stayed to enjoy the day, crafts, food and drink.

We received good feedback from the crowd and we will possibly see some in our Puppy Class and Fall Training Class.

Let's try to see more people and their dogs at our next parade.

Thanks again.
